Foreword

Innovations are to be found throughout the Triangle as they are in the Senior Class itself. The Class has endeavored to set higher standards in the publishing of this book just as today the peoples of the world find they must set higher standards to succeed as a civilization.

One of these goals is understanding and peace among nations, which is finding its way to the top of the agenda in international conferences and is thus becoming its theme — World Peace.

Special thanks go to Miss Isleib, our advisor, to Mrs. Wythe for her technical assistance, and to all of RHAM High School for putting up with our never-ending questioning and picture taking.

Peace Through Understanding

The world today is witnessing a never-ending struggle for peace among all its people. This is the world which the class of 1964 will enter becoming part of a generation which will inherit the task of establishing this peace. For this reason we wish to dedicate this written collection of memories to the cause of World Peace hoping that it will reveal the disposition of the class in general. It is only by understanding among all nations that a binding peace can be realized upon earth.

The symbol of the 1964-1965 World's Fair, the Unisphere, expresses our hope for the future, "Peace Through Understanding."

Mr. Alden Spaulding

The Administration

These are the men who have the final word on all school problems and activities. Our Principal, Mr. Spaulding and our Assistant Principal, Mr. Longfellow, guide the good ship RHAM through both turbulent and calm waters. They advise students on their problems and assist faculty members with their classes.

The class of 1964 wishes to express its gratitude to these men who have helped to make our life here at RHAM more successful.

Mr. Thomas Longfellow

The Board of Education

Because, "Neither snow, nor rain, nor heat, nor gloom of night stay these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds," the Board of Education comes through with decisions for the benefit of the student body of RHAM High School. With equal representation from each of the three towns, the Board meets twice each month to challenge the problems of the school and the students.

Mrs. Betty Griffin

Mrs. Marion Rathbun

Where the work begins

The office staff at RHAM works daily to keep our school a smooth running and efficient institution. Mrs. Rathbun, Mrs. Griffin, and Miss Warner are the secretarial staff. Mr. Sernoffsky, the Guidance Director, willingly helps the students in carefully planning their curriculum at RHAM and their future.

FACULTY
ACTIVITIES

An educated mind must be supplemented with a personality and social background which complements the person as a whole. At RHAM these qualities are created through the influence of the Faculty, the classes they teach, and extracurricular activities. As they are combined to make the person complete, the Triangle combines them into one section making them equally important to the student body.

These hallowed halls

From morning until night various activities take place here at RHAM. The pictures on these pages depict the typical school life that we see in our halls. From the seemingly unimportant process of changing classes to the highly essential practice of the Major-ettes, we observe the expressions and attitudes of our classmates and friends.

Democracy in action

Striving to crash our school quota in the magazine drive, recovering the long forgotten money for school pictures, and adjusting the budget were just a few of the Council's many activities. Its members will never forget their hectic sessions of exercising their freedom of speech. As the backbone of our school's government, their use of this right has worked in favor of the entire student body.

One of these beneficial contributions is the school store. Hosts of supplies have made it one of the best services provided by the Student Council and offered to the entire student body.

Second row (L-R): Mr. Martin and Mr. Yeomans, advisors, C. Barnes, treasurer, E. Boober, S. Strickland, M. Darwin, J. Pick, A. Kukucka, L.

The Magazine Drive Dance was thoroughly enjoyed by all who participated in it. Everyone anxiously awaited the announcement of the mystery student and the distribution of the various prizes. All enjoyed watching the president of the winning class eat steak while the presidents of the losing classes ate corn beans!

The path to knowledge

Seeking the answer to the minute but perplexing problems concerning grammar, punctuation, and good form, the English department never fails to come to our aid. Its members are consistent in their attempts to satisfy our thirst for knowledge as they continue to supply us with new information daily.

Critical analysis of the newspaper is given by Mr. Nault.

Up to their elbows in paper and newspaper print, the RHAM HORN's staff always manages to find those little extras and troublesome fillers. The school's main source of information is dedicated to printing our favorite features, CAN YOU IMAGINE? and SHADOW TAG. What would we do without their faithful reporting of the newsworthy events that occur in our corridors?

The pen is mightier than the sword

THE NEWSPAPER STAFF

That's debatable

Do you like to argue? Well, the Debate Club offers an excellent opportunity for you to express your unbiased opinions. This year our Varsity team has made several trips to nearby schools for debates and has returned with an excellent record. They have participated in many tournaments throughout the state where they have also scored victories. With this encouragement, we are looking forward to an even better season next year.

News & views

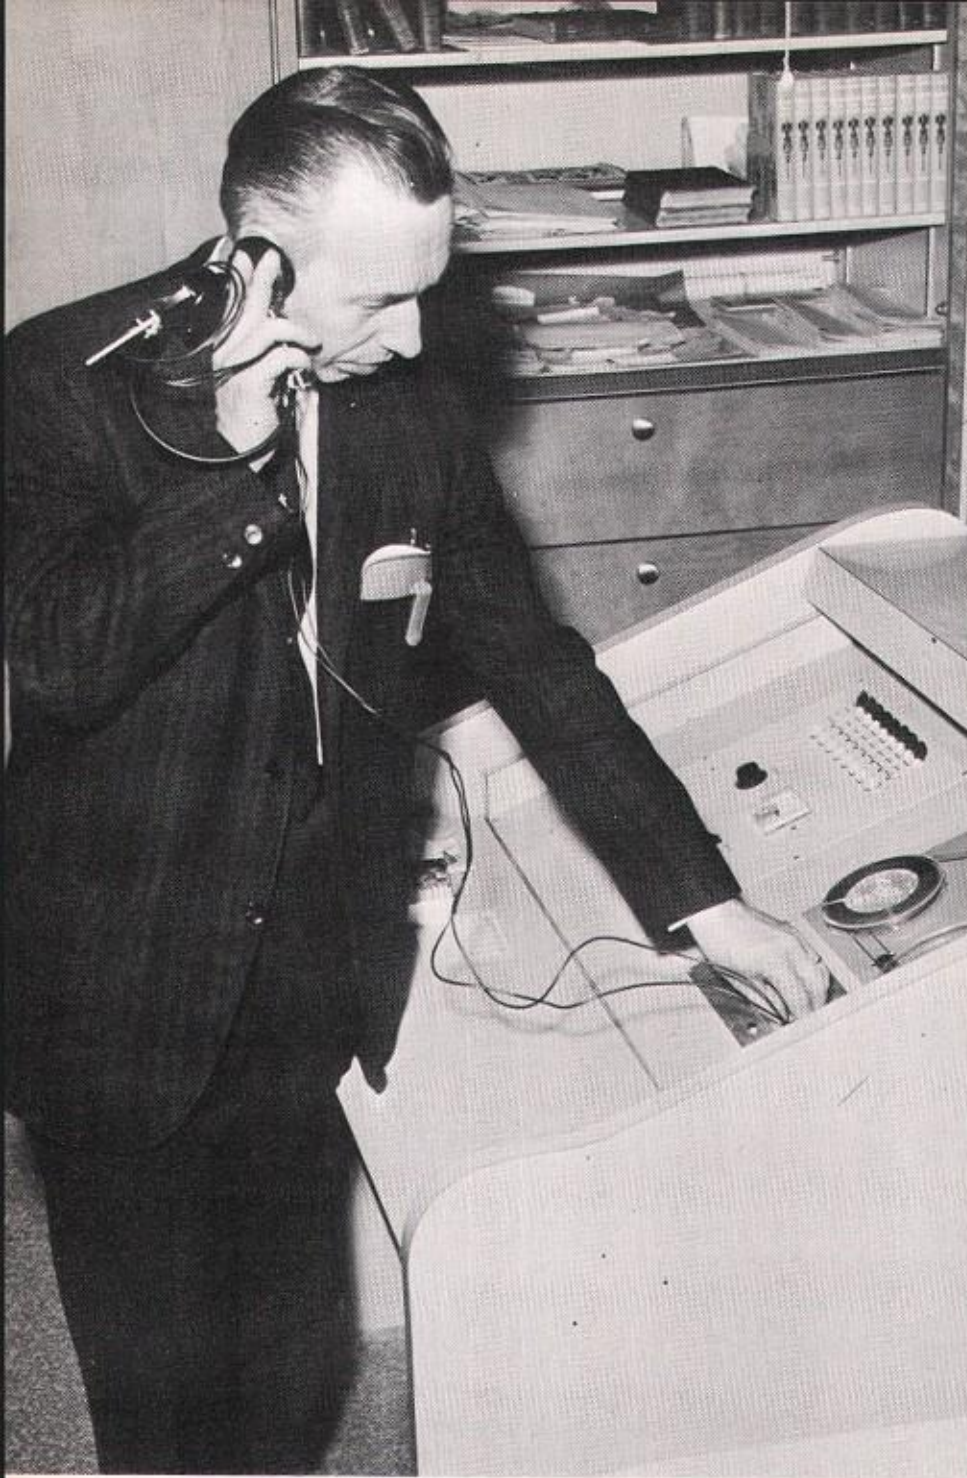

The Cecil B. DeMille's of RHAM always come to the rescue when something goes wrong with a film or some of the audio visual equipment. They can be depended upon to deliver films and equipment on time to different classrooms throughout the school, but if they're late, you'd better watch where you're walking because the halls look like the Hollywood Freeway at rush hour.

Language - a key to understanding

Because most post-secondary schools require at least two or three years of a foreign language, many of RHAM's college-bound students spend their evenings translating Caesar and conjugating irregular French verbs. Many times the students find themselves puzzling over the spoken word transmitted by the language labs. However, they gradually find themselves talking like "Friends, Romans, and Countrymen."

Seven may be the lucky number for some, but for the following members of the National Honor Society, 3.4 is the key to success: (L-R): Roger Phelps, Greg Horton, Bill Raymond, Mr. Sernoffsky, advisor; John Foote, Sally Clough, Phyllis Nowsch. Absent: Kathy Darwin.

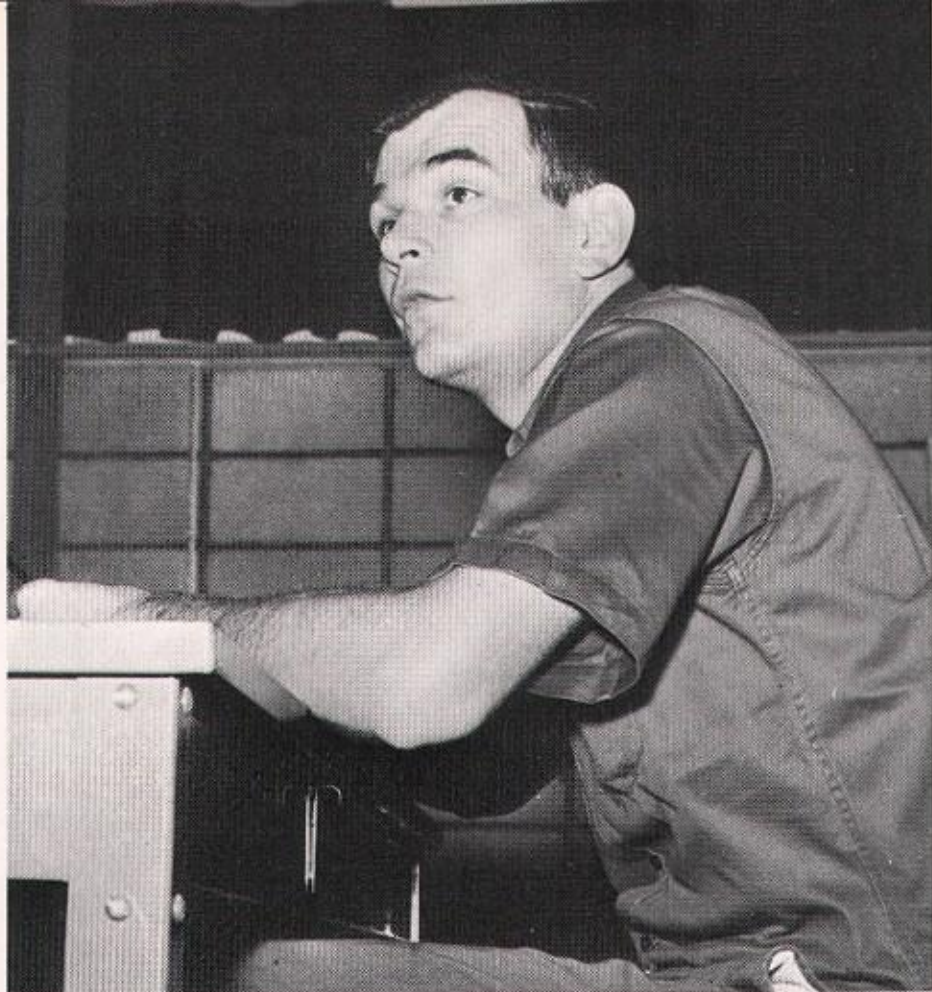

Roger, Kathy, and Phyllis try to decide where they would like to spend the next four years.

Knowledge is power

3.4 . . . a decimal from the pages of your dreary algebra book? No, it's the seemingly unattainable average which all Juniors and Seniors strive for. Although this may sound fairly simple, many hard-working Seniors are still trying to achieve this honor the second time around.

The staff of life

Salads that do not gell, burnt biscuits, glue-like spaghetti, and ripped out seams are among the trials and tribulations that train our students to be the experienced homemakers of tomorrow. As a result of this these students are quick to say, "Experience is the best teacher!"

Samaritans all

Members of the Future Nurses Club have the opportunity to learn all about nursing as they visit hospitals and special schools and invite speakers from various fields of medicine to speak to them. Sound in harmony

Whether you like music with an upbeat or a downbeat, the Music Department is sure to please everyone. At the two annual concerts the chorus and the band performed selections that appealed to all tastes.

This year RHAM was proud to have nine of its students represent the school in the All-Eastern Connecticut Band and Orchestra. These students were K. Donahue, C. Conlan, R. Price, and J. Pick in the band concert, and D. Wythe, S. Siok, E. Warner, and C. Yale in the orchestra.

Canvass -- a means of expression

Art for art's sake? Not so, say the members of RHAM's Art Club, who enjoy taking trips to scenic places where they can paint to their hearts' content.

The annual agenda includes an art festival in the spring, a trip to the Wadsworth Athenaeum, and the Scholastic Art Award Contest.

Art Club members will testify to the fact that life isn't always that merry, though — constant reminders that "that nose is too big" or "your shoulders are crooked" will linger in the minds and on the papers of many.

Instruction and criticism are important to the successful art student.

Despite the fact that there is no royal road to geometry, our math teachers help us along the way. Physical fitness

Although it is quite doubtful that any of us are ready for the Olympics this year, some students have been accused of being monkeys because of their ability to swing at least two inches above the floor while climbing ropes. Others excel in various sports ranging from soccer to deck tennis. But let's face it, we all can't be experts. Shall we try something more elementary — like hopscotch?

Sing along craze

Three hootenannies were held during the course of the year, offering excellent selections of folk music to all who attended. The audience was invited to take part in the festivities and they gathered around the performers on the floor, singing and keeping up the tempo of the evening. Two groups from RHAM performed at these gatherings — the Rhamblers and the Hillbillies, who made a hit with such favorites as Tom Dooley, Where Have All the Flowers Gone, and Cottonfields.

Another group which attracted much attention was composed of many of RHAM's faculty members who came dressed in the "height of fashion."

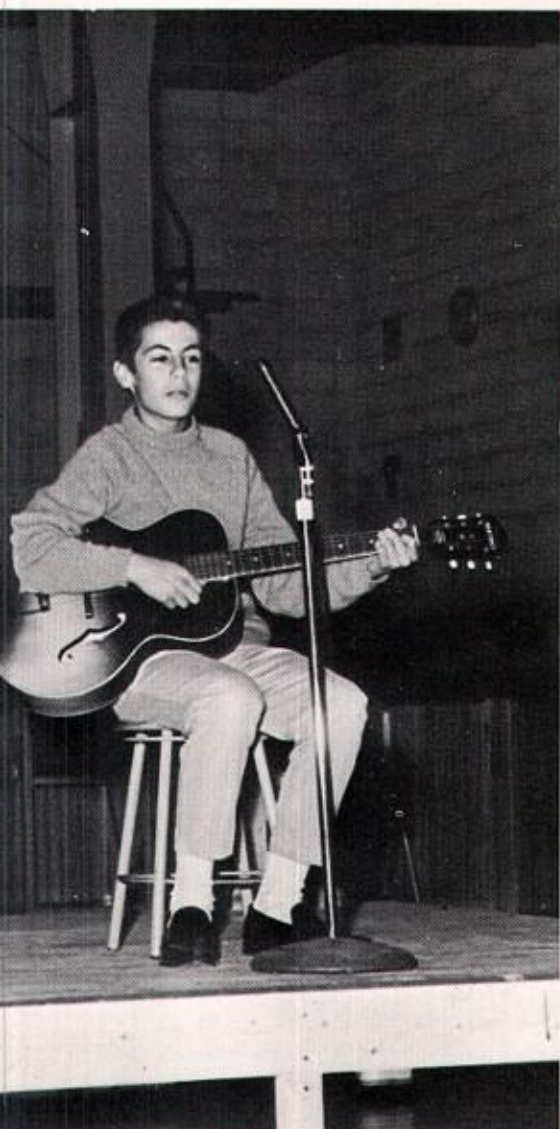

The Harmony Grits: Cliff Benson, Gordon MacDonald, Connie Benson, and Betty MacDonald.

Energetic and spirited John Hutchinson captures the animated vim of an audience which responded wholeheartedly to his clever wit. Enthusiasm, created by the community and shared by all, was demonstrated through the lively participation of students and their parents on this occasion.

At a pre-Christmas assembly, the Dramatics Club presented "The Bird's Christmas Carol" to the student body. Students who were members of the cast were M. Osborne, S. Tucker, M. Parker, S. Fowler, S. Corthell, S. Tupper, H. Grant, P. O'Neil, and A. Rudko.

Although this is the first year in the Dramatics Club for most of the cast members, they did a fine job with their initial production under the able direction of Mrs. Straight.

The spirit of Christmas

A look into the future . . .

The Juniors and Seniors took time out from their classes to attend assemblies concerning their futures. Representatives from several colleges and universities visited our school to talk about college life. Those of us who planned to attend such institutions found these sessions valuable in preparing us for the new life that awaited us.

Means work and study

Mr. May, a representative from the Connecticut State Employment Service, came to talk about job opportunities for those Seniors that planned to go directly into the world of work.

Bill Horrocks told us about the advantages of a junior college and the general atmosphere surrounding a college campus.

"Come blow your horn"

On December 6th and 7th the Columbia Players presented "Come Blow Your Horn" for the benefit of the class of 1964. Mickey McAdam, a member of our student body was also a member of the cast. We enjoyed the comedy of Buddy's troubles as he grew from a mama's boy into a hard working young man of the world and later a playboy who thoroughly enjoyed his freedom. Everyone who saw this production enjoyed a laugh provoking play which will always be remembered.

I could have danced all night

On May 25, 1963, the annual Junior-Senior Prom was held with "Hawaiian Sunset" as its theme. The evening was highlighted by the Grand March and the crowning of Kathy Ray as the Queen. Coralee Pagach, Sharon Frankel, Kris Hutchinson, and Lynn Spencer served as her attendants. Refreshments were served by underclassmen and a wonderful time was had by all.

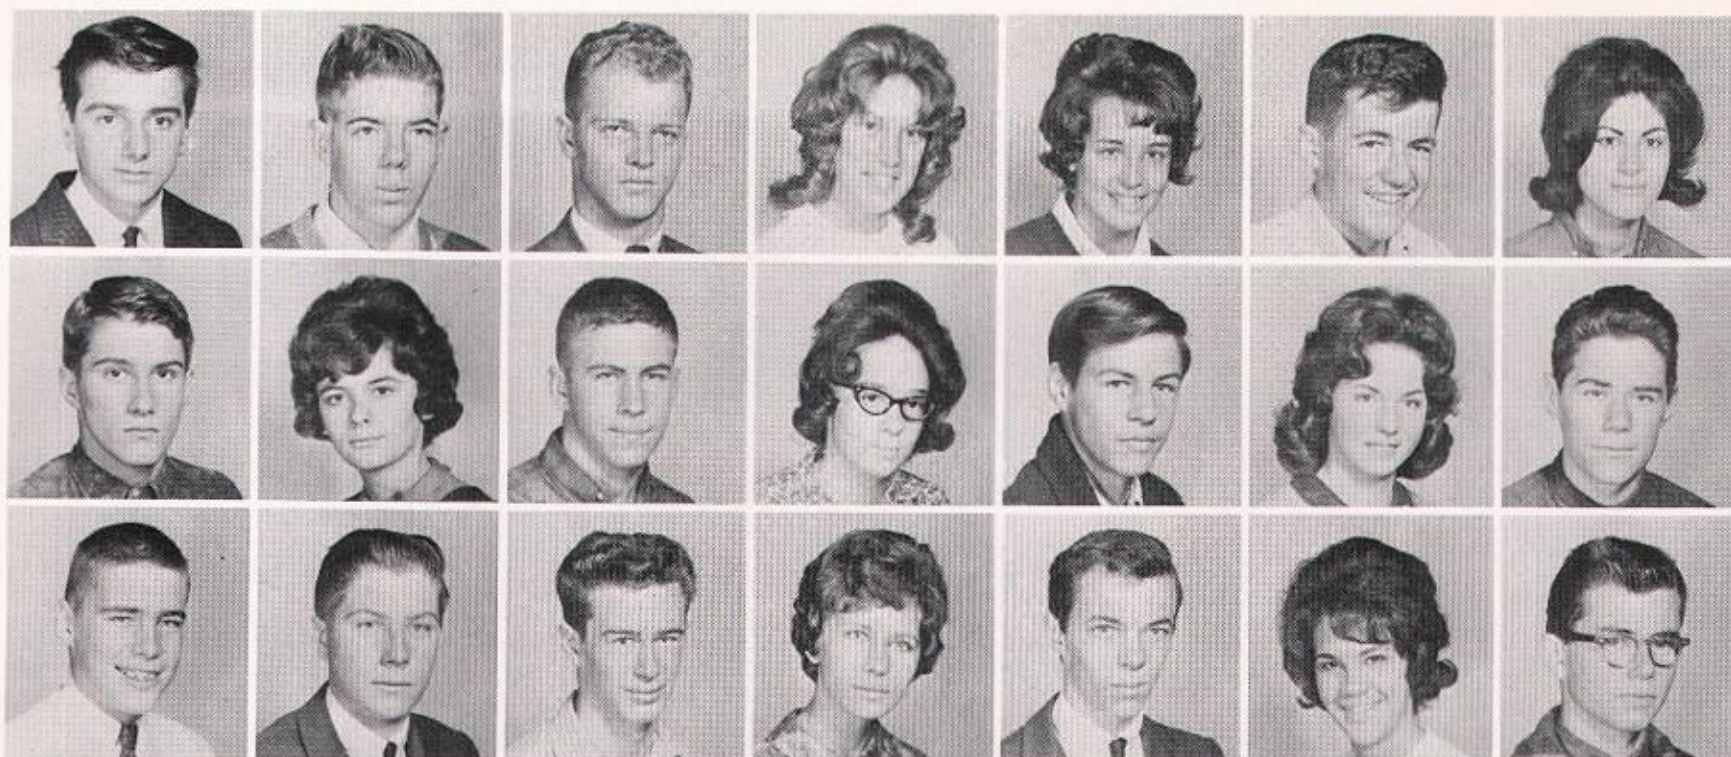

UNDERCLASSMEN

All societies work to succeed by following the examples of others to some extent. The underclassmen at RHAM comprise groups similar to societies attempting to succeed. However, as in all societies, each class will leave a small part of themselves. It is this part which distinguishes them and remains behind as a memento. Perhaps it is this part which decides whether they have succeeded.

THE GRADUATES

The Class of 1964 has gone through a process of ripening and is ready for the harvest. With worried anticipation we watched the first successful flight of a U.S. astronaut and we felt the reinforced strength of our country as our policies contained within the Monroe Doctrine were upheld in the Cuban Situation. We witnessed the first successful step toward international disarmament in the Nuclear Test Ban Treaty and we, along with the rest of the nation, were stunned at the assassination of a great leader, our President. Yes we are ripened and ready for a harvest. But instead of ending a mode of living our lives will become new and different. Now in an adult world we will have to face the challenges of the future with greater determination and foresight.

BRUCE MacDONALD BELL
Tell me where the good times are.

In September, 1958, one hundred and twenty of us wide-eyed seventh graders from Hebron, Andover, and Marlborough arrived at the doors of RHAM High School to begin our journey into the mystifying world of secondary education. We had a hectic and hilarious year of changing classes, numerous teachers, stacks of homework, dances and basketball games. As we exhaustedly passed into the eighth grade we felt as if we were old hands at high school life and when the seventh graders

The high point of our Junior year was receiving our class rings, the insignia of upperclassmen. Once we had those rings we began to realize how little time we had left in high school. This was the year we co-sponsored the Junior-Senior Prom HAWAIIAN SUNSET.

tions. At times we wondered if it was worth it. But we were well paid for our work when the big evening came. We had managed what had seemed to be the impossible—transforming the gym from a basketball court to a Hawaiian paradise. Later in the evening came the high point, the crowning of the queen and the selection of her court. This task was performed by Bob Halprin's band, an excellent group of musicians who supplied us with wonderful music the whole evening. Many of us won-

SPORTS

The Olympics of today, perhaps one of the most noble forms of sport competition, consists of men united in purpose with no cause for ill will. At the time of the original Olympics a truce was called among all nations while the games took place. Surely the qualities of sportsmanship are important if they can encourage peace among nations.

VARSITY CHEERLEADERS

Front row (L-R): Coach Washburne, R. Phelps, W. McAdam, D. Galumboski, A. Boucher, A. Pucci. Second row (L-R): R. Leach, R. Bugbee, D. Sauer, B. Lippencott, M. Filiault, R. Carley, I. Shevchenko, L. Grant. Back row (L-R): S. Pohl, P. Houle, G. Kirkham, A. Kukucka, S. Campbell, F. Coolidge, J. Batson, T. Ursin.

"Come on, boys, smile!", says the coach.

Tense concentration along the sidelines.

Armand's got something up his sleeve!

Running for RHAM

As a result of broken legs and other injuries, our team put forth added effort to defeat their opponents on the soccer field. Grueling plays and determined team spirit saw us through a good season with high hopes for a better season next year.

Roger Bugbee, a determined young athlete.

Casual relaxation before a tense game.

Jim intercepting the opponent's ball.

Fight Sachems — get that ball!

Sachems on the run.

A new season opens!

Al Pucci and Wayne McNaughton take money and sell tickets for the season's games.

Mr. Yeomans stamps the spectators at the door for identification.

The Varsity Club welcoming spectators.

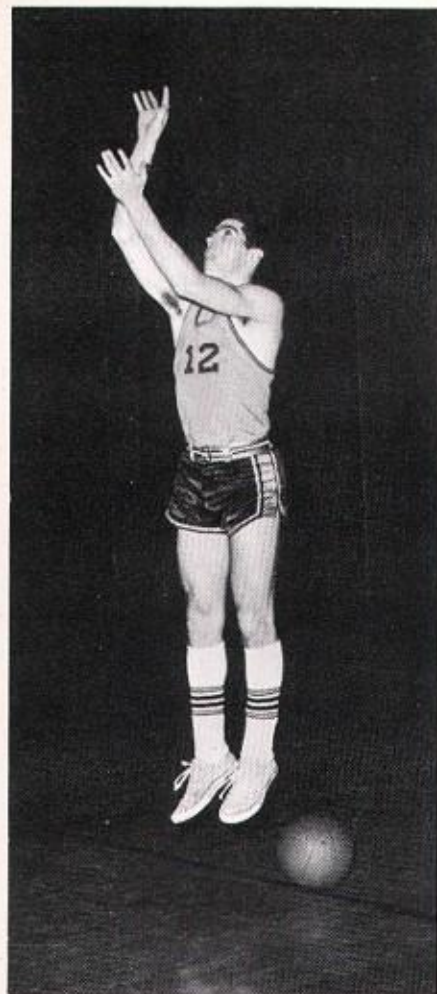

The fans cheer wildly as the Sachems score.

The spectators of the Sachem's games witnessed many tense and exciting matches this year as the team fought its way through the season. Some games were nail-biters while others were taken in a walk. Disappointment reigned at the Avon and Cromwell home games when RHAM lost those matches in the last few seconds, after being ahead most of the way.

VARSITY TEAM

"Shoot em, pass em, dribble down the floor, come on, SACHEMS, we want more!"

Jumping, fighting, Doug Berk is going to stop that ball from going in.

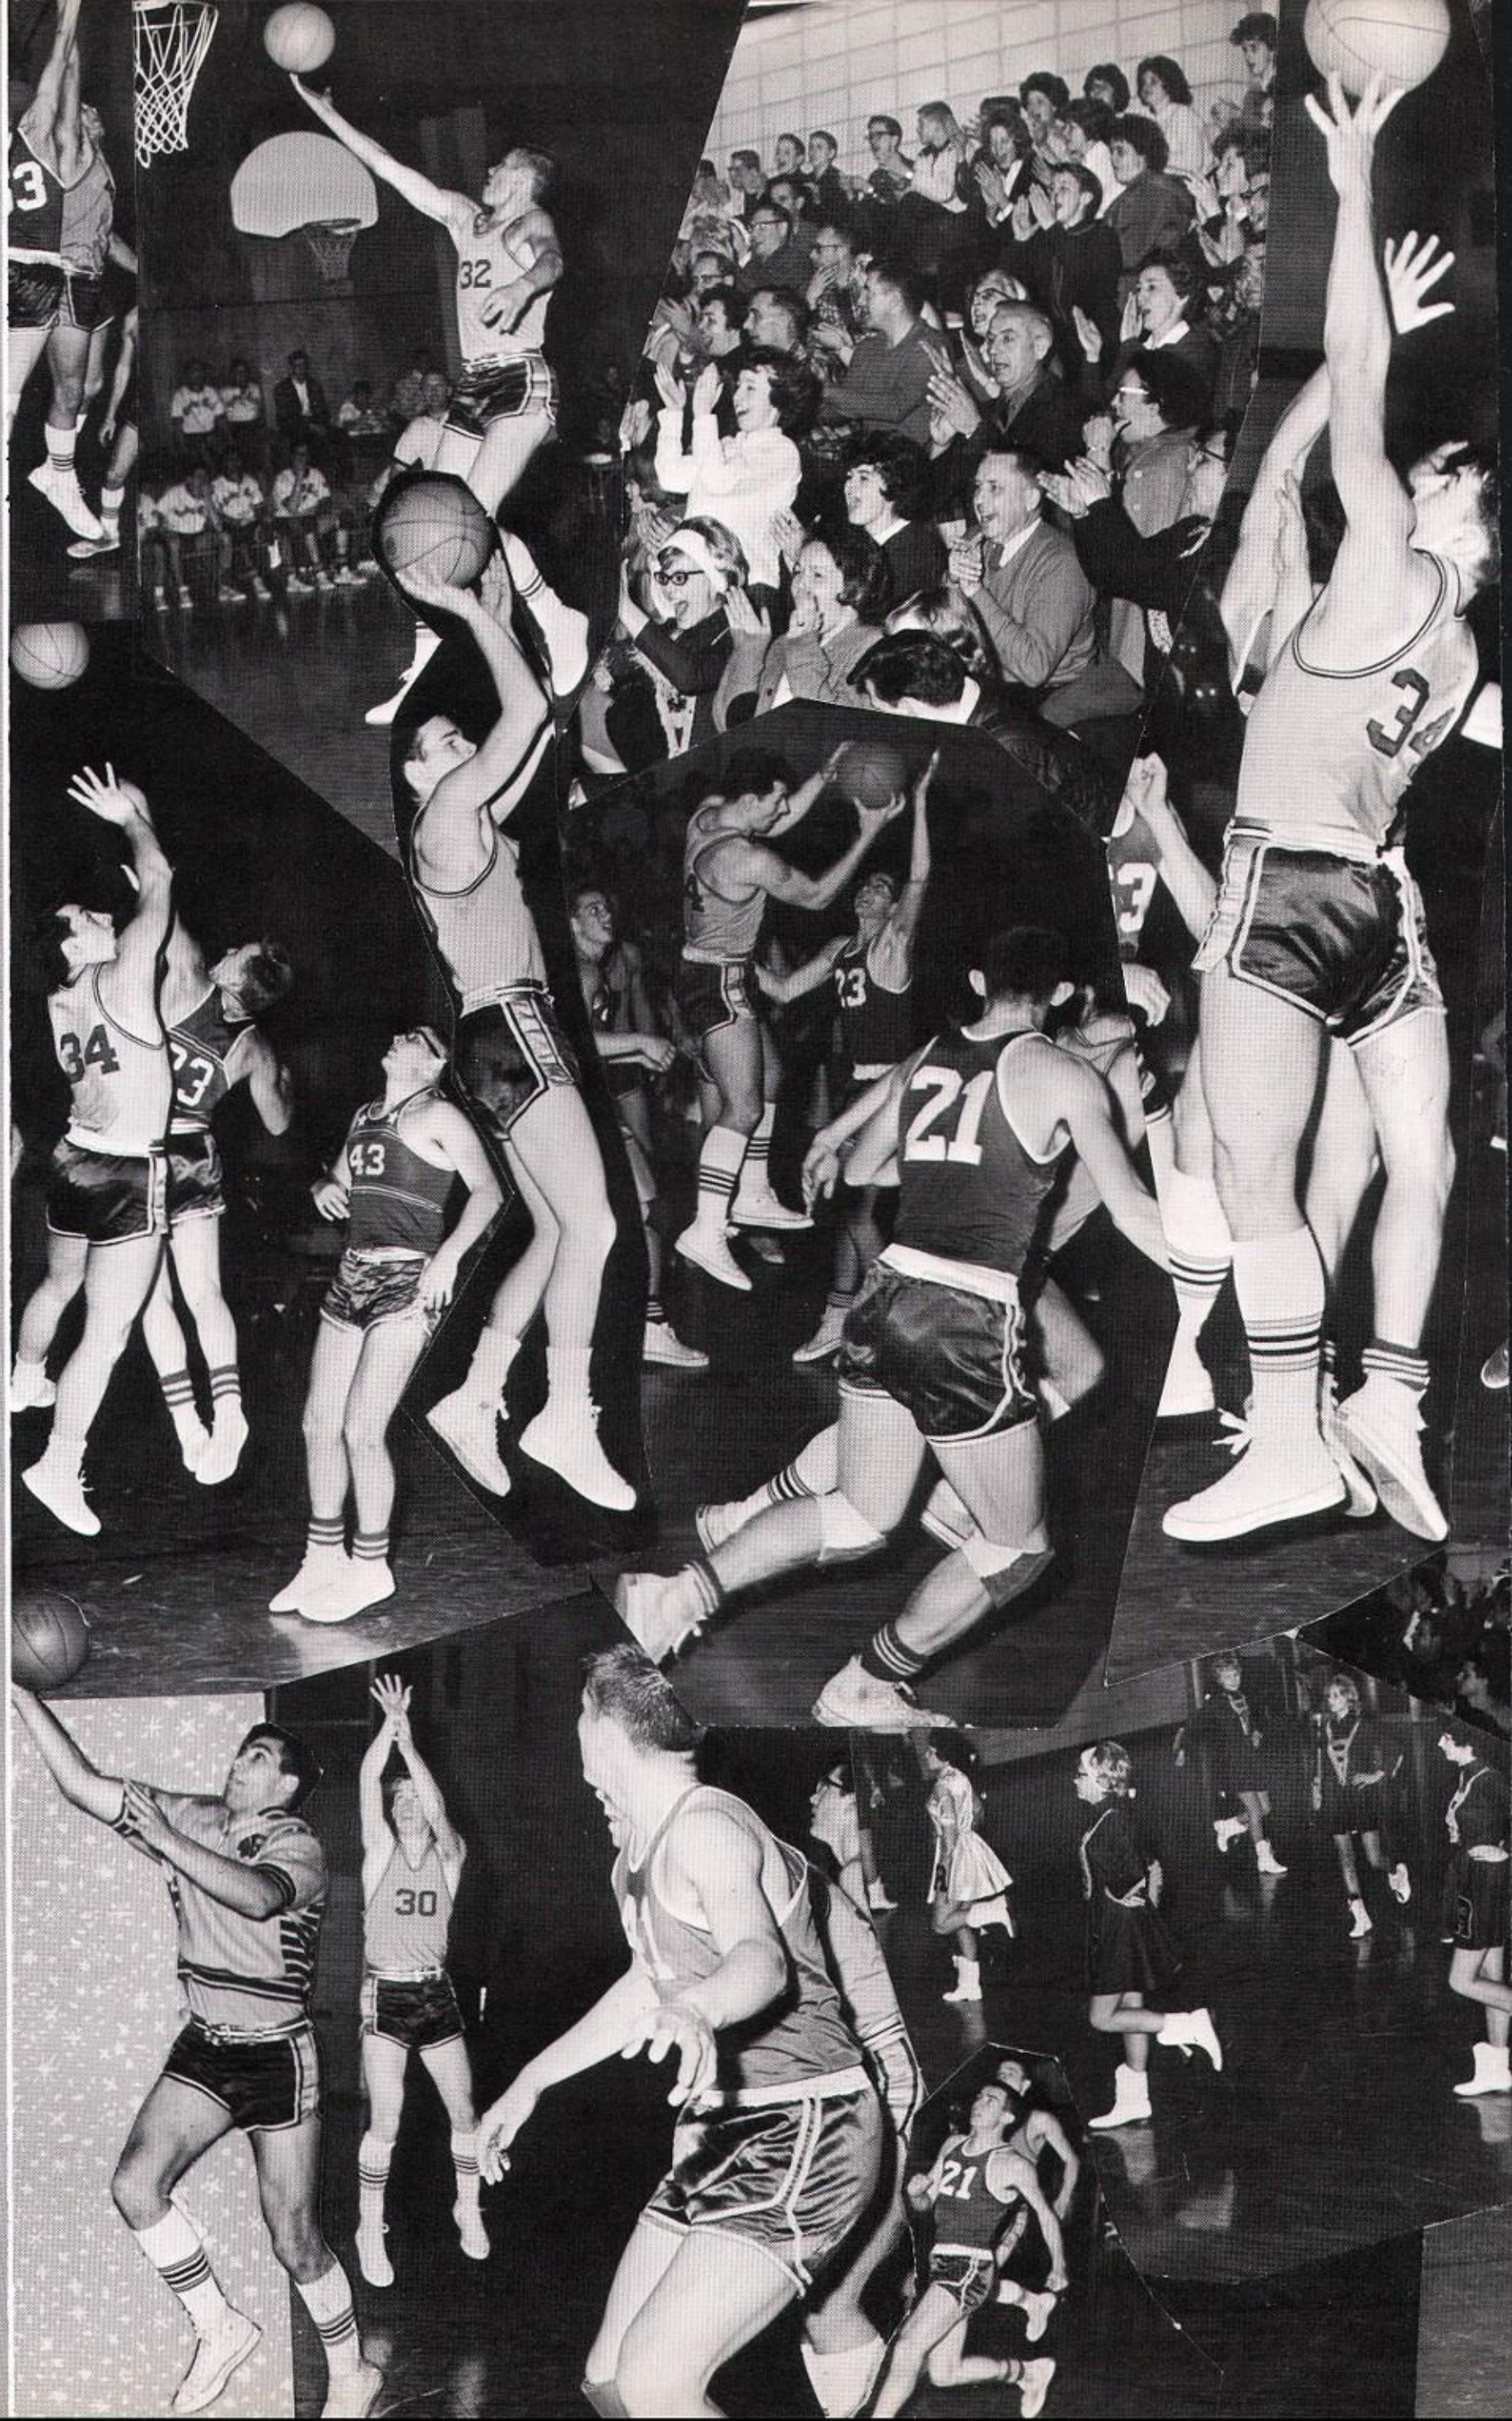

J.V. TEAM

Leading us to victory

Tournament bound, the RHAM High Sachems lashed into the season boasting a strong defense and hearty enthusiasm for team play. We were betting on a winning season and a good show in the tournament with the school and the community one hundred per cent behind our boys.

Take me out to the ball game

Third baseman Phelps prepares to fire to first.

Let's hope Coach Perrone's last minute instructions worked.

Strike two! Good in bowling but not in baseball.

Al Pucci slashes one out of sight, of the camera that is.

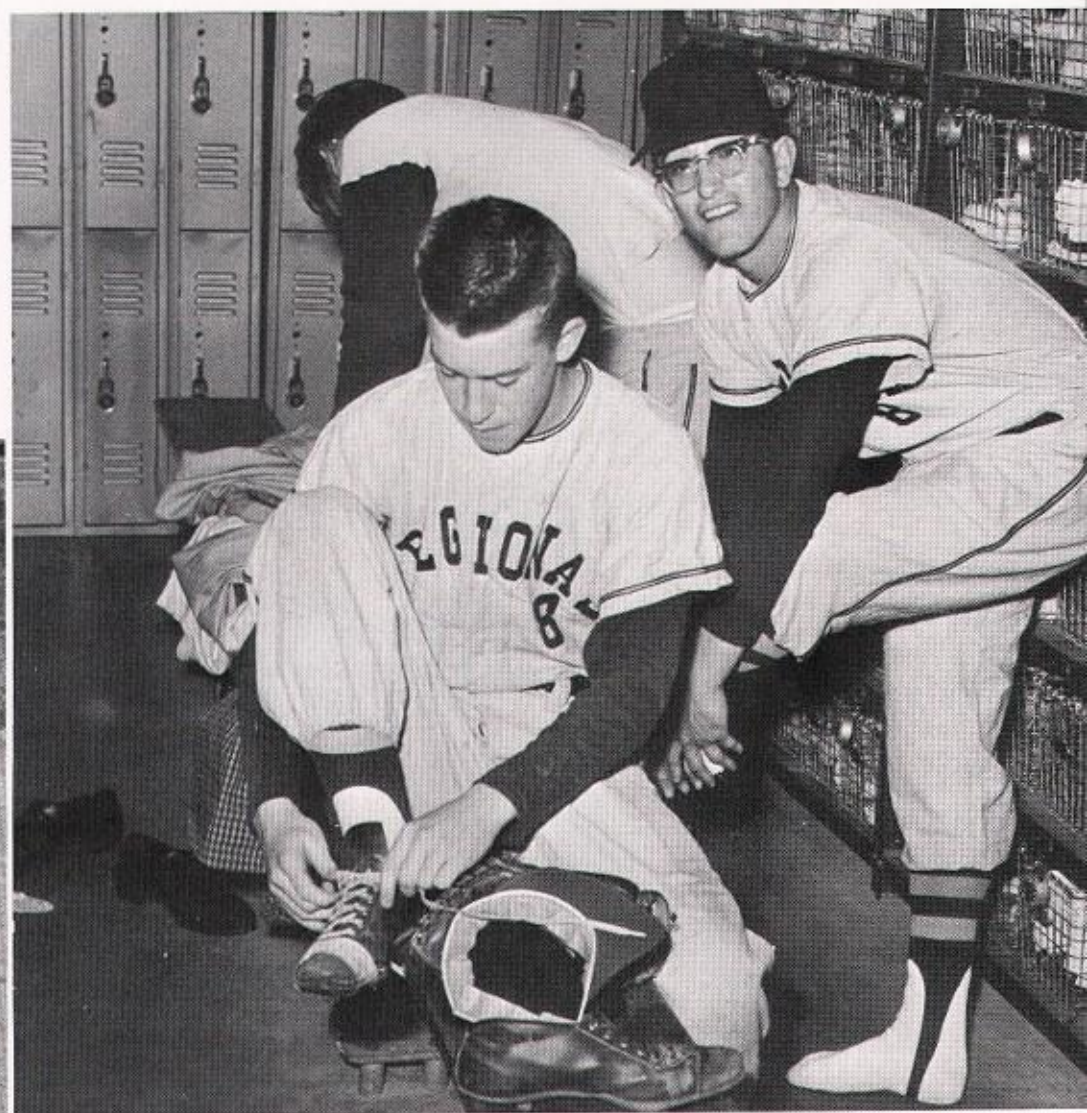

Is this dejection or intense concentration?

BASEBALL TEAM

Gary stretches for the throw before game.

The tension mounts as Roger and Al remain "calm" in the face of the camera.

Hey Coach, how's that go again?
